Tasting Notes: Unlike any other fine sparkling wine, the French Kiss is violet red in color. It is graced with a flirty kiss of natural grape sweetness and lasting, abundant bubbles. Each glass has pronounced aromas of red fruit such as strawberry and blackberry, giving the wine a well-balanced taste, that is full and rich with a touch of sharpness on the finish. Hints of wild red fruits, like strawberry and raspberry are also present. A festive and pleasant wine that contains less alcohol than most bubbles.

What French Kiss Signifies:

Wines have sparkled for as long as grapes have been fermented into vinous elixir, because bubbles are a natural product of the fermentation process that turns fruit into wine. Until now, only winemakers could taste red wines mid-transformation, when they are showing both the promise of fine dry wines and the allure of succulent fresh-picked grapes. This seductive wine preserves and bottles this precious moment of duality and transition to share with the world a sparkling wine of vivid hue and seductive sensuality as memorable as a French Kiss.

In the rolling granite hills of the Beaujolais, just south of Burgundy in France, Jean Charles experienced his first taste of sparkling Gamay – a rustic and ancestral style of sparkling wine that few can taste outside of the region. The pleasing tingle of carbonation and juicy sweetness of this wine bring a wave of pure pleasure that conjures memories of the electric excitement of one's very first tender and stolen French kiss.
